This issue introduces new editorial leadership and a new design. Hume Studies has been expanded to 6 x 9 inches, a standard size for scholarly journals, and has a new typography and page layout. The combination permits us to include more content per page while retaining a professional, readable format.

The Editors of Hume Studies extend appreciation for the following:

As the new host institution, the University of Utah provides critical support for the editorial and business office of the journal. Patricia Hanna, Dean of Humanities, and the Philosophy Department, chaired by Peter Appleby, contribute ongoing support.

Elizabeth S. Radcliffe, Santa Clara University, contributed special editorial coordination for the articles in this issue first presented at the Conference on the Philosophy of David Hume, sponsored by the Philosophy Department, Santa Clara University, Santa Clara, California, January, 1993.

Linda Weiner Morris, epr-educational publishing resources, contributed her design and desktop publishing services for the redesign of Hume Studies and for the production of this issue.

Charlotte Brown (Illinois Wesleyan University), Christine Korsgaard (Harvard University), David Fate Norton (McGill University), and Wade Robison (Rochester Institute of Technology) contributed suggestions for the cover design. David Norton also contributed of a copy of Hume's bookplate.

John W. Davis (York University) founded Hume Studies in 1975 with the support of the Philosophy Department of the University of Western Ontario. As Editor and subsequently as Book Review Editor, he contributed generously of his scholarship, time, and commitment to the success of Hume Studies, for which the community of Hume scholars are indebted and grateful.

Following Professor Davis, Robert Meuhlmann (University of Western Ontario) and Fred Wilson (University of Toronto) served as editors and contributed their assistance during the transition to the present editors. Marie Schell (University of Western Ontario) supported Hume Studies as Subscription Secretary and was especially helpful in the transition.
