Eighteenth-Century Studies

Eighteenth-Century Studies is the distinguished quarterly journal produced by the American Society for Eighteenth-Century Studies, and was the first scholarly journal devoted to the interdisciplinary study of the eighteenth century. Since 1970, ECS has been the official journal of the Society; all members receive this journal automatically. Institutional memberships and library subscriptions to ECS are also available. With a circulation of about 3,000, ECS is the largest North American journal devoted to eighteenth-century studies; it is also widely and highly respected around the world.

The American Society for Eighteenth-Century Studies also publishes the quarterly News Circular, an indexed directory of membership, the program for the Annual Meeting, the biennial pamphlet "Teaching the Eighteenth-Century," and the annual Studies in Eighteenth Century Culture, a volume representing the best papers delivered at the ASECS Annual Meeting and the many regional meetings of the eighteenth-century organizations affiliated with ASECS.

'Tis with great Pleasure I observe, That Men of Letters, in this Age, have lost, in a great Measure, that Shyness and Bashfulness of Temper, which kept them at a Distance from Mankind; and, at the same Time, That Men of the World are proud of borrowing from Books their most agreeable Topics of Conversation.

'Tis to be hop'd that this League betwixt the learned and conversible Worlds, which is so happily begun, will still be farther improv'd to their mutual Advantage.

—David Hume, 1742

Happily, discerning Women and Men of Letters in This Age can be benefit'd by a contemporary Advantage that will farther improve their Efforts betwixt the learned and conversible Worlds.

—epr, 1993
