The Hume Literature, 1986-1993

WILLIAM E. MORRIS

With this issue, Hume Studies revives its past practice of including a bibliography of the Hume literature in the November issue. Roland Hall ably compiled the previous bibliographies; would that we had been able to convince him to pick up where he left off! Hall's yeoman work also produced the indispensable Fifty Years of Hume Scholarship: A Bibliographic Guide (Edinburgh: Edinburgh University Press, 1978), which covers the Hume literature from 1925 to 1976, and also lists the main earlier writings on Hume. Hall's Hume Studies bibliographies appeared from 1978 to 1988 and cover the years 1977-1985. For these aids, every Hume scholar is in Hall's debt.

This bibliography departs from Hall's practice in that it does not list items from Hume Studies. Articles and reviews from volumes I-XIX were indexed comprehensively in the November 1993 issue. Beginning with this issue, each year the November issue will include an index for that volume.

This bibliography covers the Hume literature from 1986 through 1993; it also includes a few items from 1985 that did not appear until 1986 and so were unavailable for Hall's canvass. While electronic sources such as on-line catalogs and CD-ROM disks make compilation somewhat less arduous today, their present versions reflect numerous sins of omission and commission. Though every effort was made to avoid replicating these errors in this compilation, I follow Hall's lead in inviting readers to inform me of my own bibliographic sins. Also, as he did, I ask that authors send notices or offprints of their articles and reviews to ensure inclusion in the annual listings. The November 1995 issue of Hume Studies will contain a bibliography of the Hume literature for 1994, as well as additions and corrections to this bibliography. Please write, FAX, or e-mail to the addresses on the preceding page.
