In Memoriam

The editors of Hume Studies note with great sadness the death of Lori Fells, associate director of the Philosophy Documentation Center. Lori, who served as production manager and editorial consultant for the last three issues of the journal, was a meticulous and exacting editor and a warm and enthusiastic presence. Her love for her profession was evident even to those of us who worked with her through electronic media. We will deeply miss her, both for her superb editorial skills and for her genial personality.
