The Hume Society is pleased to announce its 41st annual conference. We invite papers in all areas of Hume studies but especially welcome submissions bearing some relation to the conference themes.

These are the themes

Hume and Language

Hume's Enlightenment Legacy

Hume and His Critics

Papers should be no more than thirty minutes reading length (4000 words) and should be submitted with an Abstract (200 words). All self-references should be deleted for anonymous review. Papers and Abstracts must be submitted in English. Papers should not have been published by the date of the conference. Authors may submit their papers as either MS Word documents or in rich text format (RTF).

Submissions should be sent to

<http://www.humesociety.org/conferences/cmgr/>

Hume Society Young Scholar Awards are given to qualifying graduate students whose papers are accepted through the normal anonymous review process.

Deadline for Submissions: November 1, 2013

Please email web@humesociety.org for questions regarding paper submissions

Journal of Scottish Philosophy

The Journal of Scottish Philosophy publishes innovative work by philosophers and historians of ideas on all aspects and every period of the Scottish philosophical tradition – philosophical psychology, metaphysics, philosophy of science, ethics and moral philosophy, political and social theory, from the late scholastics of the 15th century through the 18th-century Enlightenment philosophers to the Scottish Idealists of the late 19th and early 20th centuries. It has a special interest in the writings of Thomas Reid, and in the influence and impact of Scottish philosophy on the foundations of theology and education in North America.

The journal is edited by Gordon Graham and published by Edinburgh University Press on behalf of the Center for the Study of Scottish Philosophy at Princeton Theological Seminary. It is available to individual subscribers at substantially reduced rates through membership of The International Association for Scottish Philosophy (IASP).

International Philosophical Quarterly

Joseph W. Koterski, S.J., editor-in-chief

International Philosophical Quarterly has provided a peer-reviewed forum in English for the international exchange of basic philosophical ideas since 1961. The journal stands in the general tradition of theistic and personalist humanism without further restriction of school or philosophical orientation, and is open to both the philosophical discussion of contemporary issues and historical studies. Edited at Fordham University in New York, IPQ enjoys a long-standing relationship with the Facultés Universitaires Notre-Dame de la Paix in Belgium.

Idealistic Studies

An Interdisciplinary Journal of Philosophy

Gary Overvold, Editor

Idealistic Studies provides a peer-reviewed forum for the discussion of themes that relate to the tradition and legacy of philosophical Idealism. Established in 1971 as a vehicle for American Personalism and post-Kantian Idealism, the journal has become a venue for a number of philosophical movements that share Idealism in their genealogies, including Phenomenology, Neo-Kantianism, Historicism, Hermeneutics, Life Philosophy, Existentialism, and Pragmatism. The mission of Idealistic Studies is to provide a forum for writing that recognizes, whether by advocacy or criticism, the defining significance of consciousness and mind in the concerns of philosophy and other expressions of high culture.
