

Journal of Scottish Philosophy

The Journal of Scottish Philosophy (JSP) publishes innovative work by philosophers and historians of ideas on all aspects and every period of the Scottish philosophical tradition—philosophical psychology, metaphysics, philosophy of science, ethics and moral philosophy, political and social theory, from the late scholastics of the 15th century through the 18th century Enlightenment philosophers to the Scottish Idealists of the late 19th and early 20th centuries. It has a special interest in the writings of Thomas Reid, and in the influence and impact of Scottish philosophy on the foundations of theology and education in North America.

The journal is international in scope. Its referees are drawn from experts across the world, and it regularly includes contributions from philosophers and scholars in Britain, continental Europe, Canada, the United States, Japan and South America. In addition to the publication of substantial articles, the Reviews Section provides critical notices of both important new monographs and new editions of the works of major Scottish philosophers. Subscription to the JSP, both in print and online, is available to individuals at a substantially reduced price through the International Association for Scottish Philosophy www.scottishphilosophy.org.

Published by Edinburgh University Press on behalf of the Center for the Study of Scottish Philosophy, one of three research centers based at Princeton Theological Seminary <http://libweb.ptsem.edu/collections/scottish>.

Open Access Resources for Philosophy Teachers

New Design • Easier to Use • Great Information

“One of the most comprehensive, well-researched, and accessible guides for teachers that I have ever seen.”

—James Lang, *Chronicle of Higher Education

Teach Philosophy 101 (TΦ101) is a unique collection of open access resources for philosophy teachers. It presents strategies and planning tools for faculty members and graduate assistants who teach philosophy courses, especially at the introductory level. The mission of TΦ101 is to enhance undergraduate student learning in introductory philosophy courses by providing free, user-friendly strategies and resources to everyone in the academic community. All materials are provided on a Creative Commons open source license. Print or download as many copies as you need.

TΦ101 was created by Prof. John Immerwahr with support from Villanova University. The site has been redesigned by the Philosophy Documentation Center, and PDC is providing a permanent home for this great resource. Prof. Erin Tarver of Oxford College of Emory University now edits the site, with support from PDC and Oxford College of Emory University.
